Orange county's $12,994,000 flood control and water conservation project was given formal approval yesterday by Harry Hopkins, head of the Works Progress administration, following an agreement made Tuesday to switch the project from the army engineering division to WPA.

Word of the approval was received here in a telegram last night from Supervisors LeRoy Lyon and John Mitchell who have been in Washington for several weeks working on the scheme.

Mr. Hopkins' approval virtually assures final acceptance by President Roosevelt and allocation of $6,374,000 of federal funds for the project. The President has indicated that he will formally pass (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

FORESEE CLIMAX IN COAL STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers, today predicted "either a make or a break" before nightfall in negotiations to end the soft coal strike.

"The negotiations have reached such a stage that I think there will be something definite before nightfall," Mr. Murray told reporters when a committee of two miners and two Appalachian producers resumed work on a new Appalachian wage and hour agreement.

Remarkable Remarks Of Great Men:

"Hell, no! I won't answer them." John Akerman, publicity man for the so-called Associated Water Users of Orange County, made the foregoing response yesterday when asked by newspapermen to answer questions relative to the organization which is opposing the $6,620,000 Orange County flood control bond issue.

The questions were presented to A. F. LeGaye, former city councilman, spokesman for the once-flourishing mythical Taxpayers' League and "front" man for the new water opposition. Mr. LeGaye referred newspapermen to Mr. Akerman, who, he said, is publicity director. Mr. LeGaye said that he was too busy to answer them himself.

A. B. Berry, Santa Ana Register reporter and editorial writer for a pink throw-away paper called the "Low Down," entered the office, and when told by Mr. Akerman that the following list of questions had been submitted, said: "Of course you can answer them," and assisted Mr. Akerman in making the following answers:

Q.—What is the name of your organization?
A.—Associated Water Users of Orange County.
Q.—How much water do you use?
A.—O, just lots of it.
Q.—When was this organization formed?
A.—Three weeks ago.
Q.—Who was present?
A.—They were.
Q.—Who are your officers and directors?
A.—Everett White and Mr. LeGaye are the officers. We will announce the directors maybe tomorrow.
Q.—What arrangements have been made to finance this organization?
A.—Subscriptions.
Q.—Can you give me the names of contributors and the amounts contributed?
A.—I can, but I won't.
Q.—Who guarantees expenses until subscriptions come in?
A.—We have money in the bank to pay our bills.
Q.—If no subscriptions come in, who pays expenses?
A.—There won't be any.
Q.—To whom are you responsible?
A.—To Mr. LeGaye.
Q.—What are your total estimated expenditures to date?
A.—$750 for advertising.
Q.—Who employed you and what is your salary?
A.—Mr. LeGaye hired me. My salary is $25 weekly.
Q.—When will there be another meeting of officers of your organization?
A.—Mr. White and Mr. LeGaye are here every day.
Q.—Will it be open to the press?
A.—No answer.

STATE TO AID VETS DEMAND WATER PLAN CASH BONUS

Plans to Spend $136,000 Relocating Highway Around Dam Site

The state of California has come to the aid of the Orange county water program to the tune of $136,000, it was revealed today. Relocation of the Santa Ana canyon highway around the Prado reservoir, for which this amount has been set up in the county estimates, will be carried out by the state if the dam is built. This will eliminate $136,000 from the county's share of the water project cost. The water project will be carried out if the voters approve a $6,620,000 bond issue Oct. 4 and a $6,374,000 federal grant is received.

Engineer Tells Plan—S. V. Corteyou, district engineer for the state highway department at Los Angeles, said in Santa Ana yesterday afternoon that the state highway department will set aside $350,000 in next year's budget to provide for relocation of the road. The engineer yesterday made a tour of the county. While in Santa Ana Mr. Corteyou stressed the need of flood control. "The taxpayers of California," he said, "have several million dollars invested in paved highways and bridges in Orange county, besides our maintenance yards, and we are very anxious that these valuable public properties be protected from the devastating floods (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Santa Ana voters at noon today had manifested a 5 per cent interest in the $180,000 bond election for completing the high school building program.

At 12 o'clock the total vote cast in the 13 consolidated precincts was 858. The total registration reported by the precincts is 16,626. Slightly more than 5 per cent of the registered vote had been cast at noon.

The scant vote in the morning caused election officials to prepare themselves for handling a flood of ballots in the late afternoon and early evening. The voting booths will be open until (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—Unable to talk, 13-year-old Robert Gibson, who shot himself through the chest last week because he had no spending money or funds for school book deposits, smiled his thanks in a hospital here today when he received $1 in a letter from a California woman.

The letter was signed "Rose H. Walker, Santa Ana, Cal." The bullet had pierced a lung but today physicians gave the boy a good chance to recover, although his condition prevented him from talking.

ITALY AWAITS CONTINENTAL 'DRY PATH' SPUDS IN

Will Listen to League Begins to Drill Test Well Without Promising on McClure Ranch West of City

ROME, Sept. 26. (AP)—Italian officials said today "Italy will listen to what the League of Nations may say, but without promising to wait until after the boggy path to Addis Ababa becomes dry enough to support its army."

The League council unanimously adopted a resolution to proceed with the Italo-Ethiopian deliberations under Article XV of the League covenant, which automatically makes the aggressor any nation which initiates hostilities before Dec. 4.

These officials continued to declare nothing can halt Il Duce's expedition to East Africa and denied any fear Great Britain's fleet will bar its way. There is a belief, too, that Britain's demand for sanctions will eventually subside and in no event will a unanimous agreement for them be obtained in the League council.

HOT OIL ON STREETS

Fire Is Started When Dehydrating Tank Boils Over

Firemen at Huntington Beach narrowly averted destruction of the town-plot portion of the oil field there early today when they confined a serious blaze, reported caused by an overheated tank, to a derrick and three oil tanks owned by the W. K. Oil company at Twentieth and Olive streets.

Two large tanks collapsed from heat and spread hot oil on the streets almost four blocks from the scene of the fire. Drains prevented the oil from covering state highway 101, two blocks from the blaze. Only frantic work by firemen, under direction of Fire Chief J. K. Sargent of Huntington Beach, and men from many oil companies, prevented the spreading oil from catching fire and destroying the entire field.

Big Well Nearby—One of the best producers in the field, Huntington Beach Oil company's well, flowing 1500 barrels of oil daily as well as millions of cubic feet of gas, is located 75 feet from the burned derrick. Firemen said that if the blaze had reached this well and ignited the gas, the fire would have reached major proportions.

Harold H. Jordan, 25, Huntington Beach, pumpman in charge of operations at the oil company's plant, received first and second degree burns on his face, hands and feet in attempting to avert the fire. He was rushed to an emergency hospital for treatment and later taken to his home.

VICTIMS SENT OFF PIER IN OWN AUTO

Junior College Student Drugged Coffee, Saw Pair Drink to Death

NAMED IN TWO WILLS

Youth Was Beneficiary of Couple; Confesses Plot to Police

LONG BEACH, Sept. 26. (AP)—Saying he had established greed as the motive, Los Angeles Police Detective Condafter announced today that 19-year-old Leroy Drake, Jr., had confessed he poisoned his aunt and uncle and toppled an auto with their bodies from a pier into the San Pedro harbor last Thursday night.

At the Los Angeles home of the victims, Henry Steinhue, 60, and his wife, Nellie, 50, police today found stuffed behind a radio their two wills providing for their nephew in case of their deaths.

Detective Condafter said Mr. Steinhue's will left Drake one-third of his estate, provided Mrs. Steinhue survived her husband. In the event she did not, Drake was to receive the entire estate at Mr. Steinhue's death. The woman's will left the entire estate to the boy at her death. If her husband preceded her in death, and one-third to him if her husband survived her.

Find Death Spoons—Searching the Steinhue home, officers said they found spoons that still gave off the acrid odor of poison, and that Drake admitted he threw them out of the house after administering the lethal potions to his aunt and uncle in their coffee.

Police also said Drake forged Mr. Steinhue's name to a check for $272 after first forging the name to a filing card that changed the bank accounts held in Mr. Steinhue's name.

Detective Condafter said Drake admitted he administered the poison in his relatives' coffee, then sat down with them in the kitchen of their home and watched them drink it. They slumped in their chairs. The (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

STILL PROBING BOY'S DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (AP)—An inquest will be held here tomorrow in the mysterious poison death of Burton Smith, 16, high school student.

Detective Lieutenants Leroy Sanderson and George Hill, who questioned 10 youths at the Federated Boys' Home where Smith had resided, asked for the inquest. Their decision followed the development of a theory that young Smith, whose mother, Mrs. Ruth Smith, lives in Atascadero, Cal., was deliberately killed last Sept. 17 by poison placed in the sandwiches he took to school.

BILLINGS RECALLS PLOT WITH SWANSON AT MOONEY'S HEARING

'FRAMING' OF SUSPECT IS CHARGED

$5000 'Reward' Offered Him to Testify Against Friend, He Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (P)—Warren K. Billings, prisoner No. 10,699 at Folsom prison where he is serving a life term, was called as a witness at Thomas J. Mooney's habeas corpus hearing today.

Silenced once earlier when he attempted to object to questions, Billings was told by Supreme Court Referee A. E. Shaw that his sole rights at this hearing "are those of a witness. You are not a co-defendant or petitioner."

George T. Davis of Mooney's counsel asked him a series of preliminary questions as Billings sat calmly in the chair, quickly answering all interrogations.

Swanson's Named Davis brought the name of the late Martin Swanson, public utility detective, into the picture. Billings said he met Swanson on July 18, four days before the parade bombing.

"Swanson said he was sorry he had to send me to the penitentiary in 1913 and said he might be able to get me a job," Billings said. "Swanson took my address and then left. I caught a jitney bus and went home."

"I saw him the next day in response to a telephone call. He introduced me to several officials of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co."

"His attitude seemed extremely friendly. One of the men he introduced me to gave me an employment blank. I left the building with Swanson and went to the utility's garage."

Offered Reward "Later he produced a poster offering a reward for the apprehension of anyone in connection with the bombing of power transmission towers at South San Francisco. He asked me about Tom Mooney, how well I knew him and when I last saw him."

"He then said how would I like to have this $5000 reward. He suggested I could do many nice things on that money."

"He said it would be easy for me to earn the reward. Swanson said all that would be necessary would be for me to go into court and say I knew Mooney and that Tom had told me he was the man who had dynamited the towers."

"I made arrangements to talk to him that afternoon."

Threatened Both Billings said he sent a message to Tom Mooney by another unemployed man, explaining he had seen Swanson and wanted to see Mooney.

"Tom sent me a message and then I met Mooney. I explained about Swanson's attempt to get me to testify against Tom. I proposed to Mooney that I be allowed to participate and tell Swanson I would testify and then expose him in court."

"Tom refused because he said I would be endangering my life if I attempted it and asked me to let the matter drop."

"I met Swanson again that afternoon. After a long conversation I told him I thought he was doing Mooney a great wrong in framing him, and so far as I knew, Mooney knew nothing about it. I said I wouldn't do anything to help him."

"As he left Swanson shook his fist and said, 'You * * * you were in it too, and I'll get you as well as Mooney.'"

LEAGUE TO INVOKE COVENANT ON ITALY GENEVA, Sept. 26. (P)—The League of Nations council today gave notice to Italy and Ethiopia that they cannot start war until Dec. 4 without violating the league covenant.

If either one starts aggressive hostilities before then, that nation will be deemed to have committed an act of war against all members of the League of Nations—thereby automatically calling for punishment by the other nations.

This notice was implied by a unanimous vote—with the Italian delegates conspicuously absent—to draft a report of recommendations for the settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict under Article XV of the covenant and a decision that this article was in operation as from Sept. 4.

This means three months must elapse from that date before hostilities can be undertaken without disregard of the covenant.

The action was taken in tense excitement and in the space of 70 minutes.

MORE ABOUT STATE AID

Replacement of washed-out pavement and bridges entails a great expense, and the state is glad to do this highway relocating around the Prado dam as its share of providing the needed protection.

"We don't like to see floods, which cause huge property losses and bring a great hazard to highway traffic, and we feel the businesslike thing to do is to prevent floods rather than run the risk of large property losses by permitting our streams to run wild during the time of excessive rainfall."

Eye-witnesses said there was no explosion, although one man heard a loud hiss as accumulated gasses caught fire at 5:30 a. m. The blaze immediately spread to the company's derrick, which burned rapidly, and fell on a 1000-barrel tank, filled with crude oil.

After two hours of frantic battling with the blazing well and tank, firemen were just getting the blaze under control when a third tank collapsed, adding fuel to the fire. Foamite finally controlled the flaming oil.

Firemen's Faces Scorched Many members of the beach fire department suffered scorched faces fighting the blaze, although none was seriously hurt, the fire chief reported.

poison, one of the swiftest-acting and most deadly, brought quick death.

After making the shocking confession, Detective Condafer said, Drake led officers to the pier in Wilmington where he took the bodies in an automobile, put the machine in gear, and watched it advance to the end and drop into the ocean. The car was buried in mud, 35 feet below the surface.

Weeps at Bodies Divers went to the bottom of the harbor and recovered the bodies. Calm, at first, as he viewed the bodies, Drake suddenly wept.

"That's them," Detective Condafer quoted him as saying. "Yes, I did it. My God, it's awful, isn't it?"

The detective said Drake admitted to him he plotted his relatives' death for several days.

"I didn't want to shoot them," Drake was quoted as saying. "Somehow, that seemed too cruel. They had been good to me. They cared for me ever since I was three years old. But I was in a jam. I was charged with stealing an automobile in Long Beach and I was afraid of what might happen if my uncle and aunt found out about it."

"I was afraid that if I poisoned them and drove the auto off a cliff the poison would be found and I would be arrested. I decided that if I just drove the auto over a cliff they might not be killed."

Officers said the youth told them that after his aunt and uncle died he left the house, driving his uncle's automobile, and went to the home of Veula Hayden, 20, who, police said, is his fiancée.

"I didn't know anything else to do," they quoted him as saying.

After this visit, Drake returned to the Steinhilber home, packed the bodies into the auto, and drove to the harbor. He searched various piers until he found one that was deserted. Shortly before dawn, police said, he drove the machine out over the water, set it in low gear, jumped out, and watched it carry its human cargo beneath the ocean surface.

Went to Movie Detective Condafer said Drake told him he took Miss Hayden to see a movie, "The Dark Angel," and returned home about 3 a. m., last Friday, where he concocted an alibi for use if he were apprehended. It was that his aunt and uncle had taken poison in a suicide pact, and he had disposed of their bodies to hide the disgrace.

Young Drake graduated from a high school in Long Beach with honors and was enrolled in the junior college here before moving to Los Angeles. He was a student of astronomy, chemistry and engineering.

Police records showed he appeared in superior court yesterday and was placed on probation for three years for the theft of an automobile last Aug. 23, belonging to Phil Singer, Long Beach.

URGE LIONS TO BACK BONDS

Holmes Bishop, director of the Orange county farm bureau, today urged members of the Santa Ana Lions club to lend their effort toward the passing of the coming $6,620,000 water bond issue which comes up for a vote Oct. 4.

Mr. Bishop urged them to get out and vote, and to assist in any way possible in getting friends and neighbors to the polls.

"The coming election on the water bond question must be looked upon as a move for conservation," Mr. Bishop said. "We, as citizens of Orange county, cannot afford to jeopardize our most important industries, all of which depend on water. The question does not effect the farmers alone, but will vitally effect business in the cities in Orange county. Last year our crops brought $27,000,000 in to Orange county, and when our supply of water diminishes, we can expect our income to diminish. From a business standpoint, citizens of this county bond election."

Glenn Everman, campaign director of the Santa Ana Community Chest, campaign, solicited support of the club in the Chest's drive which commences Oct. 6. Volunteers were called for to assist in campaigning for funds.

The remainder of today's meeting was taken up in reports from chairmen of various club committees.

TITLE COMPANY SUES TO LEARN OWNER OF MONEY

The Orange County Title company has $14,295.50 that does not belong to the company and which it wishes to deposit with an officer designated by the court pending a court ruling as to the legal owner of the money.

In a suit the title company started today against Dr. A. E. Zimmerman, Julius Stanley, county Jackson as sheriff of the county; Mrs. Charlotte Tate, trustee; E. R. Abbey as public administrator and administrator of the estate of the late Mrs. Ida Mae Zimmerman, deceased; Virginia Westbrock, Helen Story Campbell, D. W. Tubbs as county agricultural commissioner; Withers Brothers, Ltd., Quality Fruit Company, Inc.; the Southern Counties Bank and the County of Orange, the court is asked to determine ownership of the money and restrain any of the claimants from starting legal proceedings against the title company.

According to the complaint, Mr. Abbey was appointed administrator of the estate March 31, 1933. In January, 1932, Dr. Zimmerman had executed a trust deed and delivered it to the title company to secure a promissory note to Emma C. Wagner. July 2, last, the property was sold under foreclosure and a deed delivered to Helen Story Campbell, the highest bidder. After the debt against the property had been cleared there remained $14,295.50, which, according to terms of the trust deed is to be paid to the person establishing his or her legal claim to it.

With a cash balance of $14.45 remaining from the fund raised to purchase a wheel-hair for Vern Carpenter, Santa Ana invalid, The Journal will use this extra money to provide minor repairs and gasoline for the chair.

Lieut. Col. Robert Dubbin, Long Beach agent, was given a check for $215, out of which he paid $115 commission to Frank (Brownie) Simoneau, Santa Ana agent. Mr. Simoneau donated $10 of this to Vern. It is estimated approximately $8 of the $14.45 will be required for minor changes on the car. The small remainder will be donated to Vern's credit at the C. J. Skirvin service station.

At that time the derrick caught fire and fell on a tank, causing a serious blaze.

Damage was estimated by Chief Sargent at approximately $12,000.

OPERATION ON GIRL OKEHEED BY MOTHER

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 26. (P)—Margaret Kerston, 16-year-old appendicitis victim, went under a surgeon's knife at Perth Amboy General hospital today after her mother finally relented in her stubborn opposition to medical aid for the critically ill girl.

Margaret's life was endangered by peritonitis from a ruptured appendix. Physicians were dubious of her chances for life.

Dr. William H. McCormick, the family physician who early today found the door barred to him and to all other visitors, expressed fear that the girl would die unless an operation were performed.

Margaret was stricken suddenly last night and Dr. McCormick was summoned. The physician said he found her appendix had already burst and prescribed an emergency operation.

Dr. McCormick went to call an ambulance. When he returned he found Mrs. Kerston had hastily barricaded the doors and pulled the shades.

The ambulance, with two surgeons, and a squad of police, arrived, but Mrs. Kerston was adamant. Helpless, the group stood on the sidewalk and watched the lights in the house go out one by one save a single bulb in the sick girl's bedroom.

TEACHER JOBS TO CONTINUE

The emergency educational program which provided work for 27 teachers in Orange county last year will continue this fall, it was indicated today. A state-wide project for this work has been approved by the state Works Progress administration and sent to Washington. Approval there is expected in a short time.

Last year the work was listed under the State Emergency Relief administration, but was actually administered under the state board of education. This year it will be classified under the WPA, which is the successor to SERRA on work projects.

News of the state approval of the project came today to Terrence Halloran, SERRA director here, in a letter from George C. Mann, chief of the division of adult education and continuation education.

New teaching permits will be required, Mr. Mann's letter said. Those in use, even though granted for one year, are good only under the SERRA, he explained.

Teachers will be employed on a full-time basis. The maximum salary in metropolitan areas will be $94 per month, graduated down in places of smaller population. The maximum for nursery school workers will be $85 per month.

TAX CUTS TO BE RECOMMENDED

Recommendations for tax reductions in Orange county will be submitted at the next meeting of the County Tax council, according to an announcement today. Members of the executive board of the organization met at the Green Cat cafe last night and authorized Dr. Frank H. Patterson, chairman of the board, to name members of a committee to formulate a definite plan of action.

The organization will hold a meeting within two weeks, according to George Rayer, secretary, and at that time the tax reduction recommendations, based on a study of county activities for the past three years, will be submitted.

any project favored by Mr. Hopkins.

On Oct. 4, voters of Orange county will be asked to approve a $6,620,000 bond issue to provide Orange county's share of the cost of the program. This money will be used for obtaining rights-of-way and the county's share of actual construction costs. It is estimated that approximately $3,000,000 of the total issue will be placed in the rights-of-way fund, the unused part to be returned to the county treasury.

To Employ 5000 Under terms of the WPA grant, that organization, through the National Reemployment Service at Santa Ana, will supply all workers on the project. It is estimated that approximately 5000 men will find employment for from one year to 15 months on construction of the eight reservoirs and three protection channels. The workers will be drawn from Orange county and when the local quota is exhausted, men will be imported.

Federal engineers will be in charge of the project and government inspectors will be resident on each of the 11 jobs comprising the gigantic program. All necessary technical and advisory assistance will be provided by the federal government and service of the Orange county food control district will be at the disposal of the government.

Mr. Coble sustained injuries from which he died 10 days later when the automobile assertedly driven by George W. Etchinson, in which he was a passenger, was involved in a crash at Hazard road and Wright street with a truck driven by Nakamoto.

Mr. Mattie E. Coble, the widow, and her seven children, Mrs. Beulah Brooks, Mrs. Laura Strong, Arthur Coble, Roscoe Coble, Fay Coble, Theodore Coble and Mrs. Hilda Marshburn, are demanding $25,000 actual and $600 special damages.

KNOX INDORSED AS CANDIDATE

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (P)—Col. Frank Knox, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, today was indorsed as the G. O. P.'s 1936 presidential nominee by the Cook county (Chicago) central committee.

past year was chairman of the Legion's national commission on Americanism. He had been chairman of its national athletic commission and also a member of its executive board.

The convention adjourned sine die at 3:15 p. m.

Delegates and Legionnaires who packed the convention hall roared a unanimous vote in favor of a three-paragraph resolution that scorned the vetoed Patman bonus inflation bill.

Loud but brief discussion preceded the action, featured by prolonged boos directed against Representative Wright Patman, Texas, author of the bonus inflation bill vetoed by President Roosevelt at the last congressional session.

Finally Wins Cheers

Patman, ardent supporter of inflation of the currency as a means of payment of adjusted compensation certificates, finally won cheers when he concluded a five-minute argument with the statement that the method of payment was secondary to the main issue.

Dwight Sullivan of New York, legislative chairman of that state's department, arguing for the resolution, declared a campaign of vilification has been carried on in congress against Frank N. Belgrano, national commander, in the fight against the bonus.

Representative W. B. McFarland, Texas, also was booed as he recommended the method of financing the payment be left to congress.

2 Million for Bankers

"You have booed my comrade and your comrade, Wright Patman. Where were you back in 1923 when he was using his own money in an effort to get the bonus payment?" he shouted. McFarland said the second section of the adopted resolution provided only for a bond issue "that would give the bankers of this country more than $2,000,000."

"Don't tie inflation around the neck of the bonus," shouted Chas. Hallock of Indiana. "Take the road that will get you there. The bonus is popular with all the people. Inflation is not."

Not a delegate was in his chair as the final vote on the brief resolution was ended.

The vote ended 45 minutes of debate that kept the auditorium in a constant uproar. Speakers shouted above the din. Quiet was restored after the vote.

Mrs. Melville Muckelstone, Chicago, was elected president of the American Legion auxiliary at the closing session of the organization's national convention here today.

WALNUT PACT DRAWS FIRE AT HEARING

BERKELEY, Sept. 26. (P)—Curtailed of walnut production and marketing was bitterly assailed and stoutly defended at final hearings on the proposed AAA agreement today.

Walter Rothchild, president of the Rosenberg Bros. Packing company, an independent, branded the agreement "unconstitutional" and declared the independents stood for "absolutely unlimited marketing rights" for 1935.

In defense of the restrictions, Carl Loos, attorney for the California Walnut Growers' association, said this year's crop will be approximately 200,000 tons in excess of last year.

The leaves of Turkish tobacco are strung one by one like beads (see how it is done in the picture). After the leaves are strung they are packed in bales (see picture)—sometimes as many as 80,000 leaves to the bale.

We have on hand at all times for CHESTERFIELD cigarettes upwards of 350,000 bales of Turkish tobacco...

The pleasing aroma and flavor of Turkish tobacco is almost necessary if you want a good cigarette.

Turkish tobacco is more costly when you take into account that you have to pay 35c a pound duty, but we have to have it to blend with our mild ripe home-grown tobaccos.

It helps make Chesterfields milder, it helps give them better taste. Just try them.

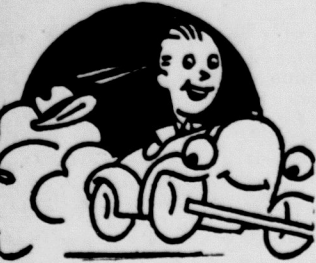

Outstanding .. for mildness .. for better taste

ORANGE has a plaza and a couple of rough streets and a lot of nice people, but the biggest claim to fame that we've found there—we're not saying that there aren't plenty—is one of the first, if not the only, woman police sergeant we've ever run across.

In most communities some hard-boiled guy, like Jim Pifer in Anaheim or Johnny Gregory in Fullerton, is police sergeant. They are able to pounce upon the most recalcitrant prisoner, grab him by the collar and pants and escort him to his cell. They can, and do, meet all sorts of emergencies in their departments, relying upon masculine strength to accomplish their respective purposes.

But Orange has Miss Billie Musselman.
Don't know how she does it, but they never have any prisoner trouble in their jail. Things seem to go along just as smoothly as if some tough male was in charge. In fact, Miss Musselman reports that she has yet to have any trouble with wrongdoers. She may be lucky, but we think otherwise. She's good-looking.

JUDGE A. W. SWAYZE thinks otherwise.
"You can say for me," said Hizoner, "That she's the only real desk sergeant in Orange county. She's not only accomplished and efficient, but she plays no favorites."

"The boy who gets her is going to be lucky," he said. The last, however, wasn't for publication.

UP TO NOW, Miss Musselman has bumped up against the stern realities of the law only once. Then, she escorted a woman prisoner to the judge's court. Usually, she merely takes care of routine police business—files reports, keeps records, and does whatever else a good police sergeant is supposed to do. In her spare time, she operates the city hall switchboard. She's held the position since last March, and, according to observers, is proving a very adaptable official.

BEFORE Miss Musselman, Miss Myrtle Shaefer was sergeant. She held the position for over two years. Now she works in a city clerk's office. She didn't have much trouble with prisoners, either. Would seem that a woman on the police desk sorta throws a scare into tough prisoners, or something.

AT ANY rate, if you've made up your mind on being arrested, looks like Orange is the place to go.

THE WORLD'S series are almost here.
And it appears that the Pittsburgh Pirates are out of the picture, as far as entering into the big event is concerned.

Nope, this isn't Frank Rogers' column. We're trying to talk about Floyd "Arkie" Vaughan, if you'll only give us time.

With the Pirates out of the picture, Arkie is due home pretty soon, things'll probably happen in Fullerton. And, with the 20-30 club at the helm, we're looking for quite some time when the favorite son gets back to his high school stomping grounds.

ACCORDING to Darrel McGavran, club officials are planning to have Joe E. Brown, of movie fame, present when the fatted calf is consumed. Other big things in the air—the whole town'll probably turn out when Arkie comes home.

YESTERDAY we ran across one of those things which make us wish we were young again.

Out west of Anaheim there's a big loading rack, once used for putting sugar beets on railroad cars.

The gadget is about 40 feet high in the middle, with sloping runways on each side. The runways are steep—steep enough for a coaster to get up breath-taking speed, if a youngster is brave enough to try it.

And there were lots of 'em brave enough yesterday. Dozens of coasters, with a like amount of kids, toiling up one ramp, so that they could roar down the other side.

Looked like it wouldn't hold a car, or we'd have been trying it ourselves.

WHICH brings another thing to mind. Two kids on the way home from school. Meandering from one side of the road to the other, with side excursions after butterflies and stray cats. Visions of bread and maybe peanut butter when home is reached.

Gangway! We're going back and try that loading rack, and come what may!

Both groups are building meeting halls in an effort to create more interest and activity in these circles, and the money will be used for construction purposes.

Mrs. Foster fills the vacancy caused by resignation of Mrs. E. G. Smith. The association was entertained by Mrs. A. Haven Smith, who sang solos and gave short talks. Mrs. Smith was accompanied by Mrs. Joe Livernash.

A resolution was introduced by Mrs. Arthur Siphert, regretting that Mrs. E. G. Smith was forced to resign due to ill health, and making her an honorary member of the executive board.

Scouts of the K. of P. troop, under direction of Frank Smith, were given merits from Harrison White for tests passed, during an intermission in the meeting.

LAGUNA TRANSIENT SERVICE STARTED

LAGUNA BEACH.—An announcement has been made by Mrs. Elsie B. Robinson at the chamber of commerce that transients coming to Laguna for a short stay may leave their names and addresses at her desk. A special file of such names is kept for benefit of persons wanting to locate parties who have no permanent address here.

Aren't they life-like, these wild roses and lilacs which form the loveliest of outdoor floral sprays? You'll want to do them in their natural coloring, of course, and a lovelier combination of color doesn't exist than delicate pink and orchid. Of course, if you prefer, you can work your design in a thread which matches the linen to be embroidered instead of using varied colors. The artwork is very easy to do—its lines sweeping and simple—no bars to complicate the work. It's a pattern which lends itself well to scarf ends, cloths, pillows, doilies with matching centerpieces, and a host of other small linens. In pattern 5418 you will find one and one reverse motif 6x9 inches, two and two reverse motifs 4x5 inches and four motifs 2 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed; color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred to Santa Ana Journal Household Arts Department, 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, Cal.

PRADO SITE IS FAVORED

Finkle, Who Opposed Former Issue, Likes Present Project

F. C. Finkle, well-known engineer, who actively opposed construction of a dam at the lower site on the Santa Ana river, favors the Prado site for a flood control and water conservation dam, he told George Kellogg, Associated Chambers of Commerce president, in a letter received recently. He said, in part:

"You are the first one who has said anything to me about the bond issue for the Prado dam. For your own information, I will say that the project is now all right, at least as far as the dam at Prado is concerned. I believe that the project should be a combined flood control and water conservation proposition, as both are very much needed. If it goes ahead, the suit against the people of Riverside and Fontana, who are taking more than their share of the water, should be prosecuted with vigor, so as to give Orange county its proper amount for use in the Prado reservoir."

Coast L-i-n-e-s

Someone once said that a town is a composite of people and buildings. Yet to a stranger visiting a town for the first time the impression gained depends to a greater extent upon the architecture than upon the average type of people going about their daily tasks.

If you can know your neighbor by his face, you can know a town by its homes. Coming down to Laguna, which was the original purpose of this piece, we gather the impression that here is a progressive town, growing rapidly. Both in population and building. The original quaintness of Laguna was never dependent upon man-made scenery, landmarks or homes; the real Laguna was, and is, the setting.

Out of the maze of quick-sale and careless building which mushrooms up in any community, usually there are certain sections which mature and blossom slowly into groups of homes that stand out as individual manifestations of beauty. Some are small, simple, unornate, but still attractive. A tour of the really attractive homes in Laguna would reveal that, in most cases, the gardens are the prime feature. The houses themselves are not elaborate or expensive; but they are unique in design and the interiors express the artistic originality of their owners.

That is the whole secret of an attractive beach resort. Originality is the least expensive kind of luxury. And it requires much more time than money.

Originality commands a value in real estate fully as important as the number of rooms in a house and the size of the lot. Many a prospective buyer has been sold on a single feature which struck his fancy, like an unusual or handy arrangement of closets or kitchen conveniences, anything different.

For example, an annex guest-room was recently added to the luxurious grounds of E. H. Griffith's place at Three Arches. Looking down the road it is scarcely discernible through the shrubbery and trees, and to look at the brilliant white exterior of the room one would never guess where it originally came from. And where it had been!

Remember, it is well anchored now on a foundation of beach stones and cement, but there was a time when it bucked the winds and rode the waves of the Seven Seas. For years the master of the "Mary Dollar," the first of Captain Dollar's steel sailing ships, charted his position in this same charthouse, slept on the same bunk against the wall, and brought her safely home on her last voyage—to the junk pile.

Mr. Griffith, Hollywood movie director, has collected sailing trophies all his life. On one of his scouting trips he came across the remains of the "Mary Dollar." The charthouse captured his fancy. About 14 feet square, weather-beaten, dingy, but still very much intact, it was destined to become a tool-house in a junk yard. Mr. Griffith objected, bought it outright, had it cut out of the steel deck, loaded on a truck and transported to the edge of his property line.

Here's where the difficulties commenced. The house and gardens are in a natural depression facing the sheer drop of the cliffs to the ocean. Hence, in order to lower the old charthouse down to its final resting place, six trees and a fence had to be removed, temporarily.

It was first embedded in an appropriate stone foundation, and all woodwork, inside and out, was scraped down to the original grain. The only changes made were cutting of a window for better ventilation and addition of a composition roof, although the inside drains were still intact. The outside was painted white to blend with the house and miniature lighthouse, but the natural grain of the old wood was left inside, even the heavy oak deck with its original caulking.

The port skylights are purple with over 50 years' exposure to the sun's rays, and cast delicate shades of light into the room. Another bunk has been added as a partner to the one against the wall, and a bathroom installed behind a little door where the captain used to go above to gaze at the stars. Everything is complete in this novel guestroom annex which once pitched and rolled in the high seas atop the good old sailing ship "Mary Dollar."

HANGOVERS FROM THE RECENT BIG MELEE
THERE'S little use, it seems, of trying to talk or write anything but Louis-Baer for at least a couple of days more.

On both sides of the streets there is scarcely any other topic of conversation.

Most of it, of course, concerns the future of the battling bridegroom, Joe Louis. In two weeks Baer will be as forgotten as a vice president.

Here's some of the information that's filling the air. After today we'll get back into the usual rut.

Arthur Donovan, who was close enough to know because he was the referee, says the punch that landed Maxie was a left hook to the pit of the stomach in the first round. "That punch landed when Baer was going pretty good," said Donovan. "It was a crusher, and, I think, took most of the confidence out of the Californian besides slowing him up abruptly. It was a distinct turning point and made the rest of the bout easy for Louis."

We don't doubt his word on that except that part about the "turning point." There's no such thing as a "turning point" in a one-sided fight.

Next for Louis, mostly because there is no one in the United States to stop him, is a tour abroad. He will take on all the stumblers in Yurp. He goes with Mike Jacobs, the luckiest guy alive for getting Louis under his promotional wing, who now has a string on Joe's services until Jan. 1, 1940.

Walter Muesel, if he can get past Primo Carnera Nov. 1, may be the brown butcher's next victim. Then Schmeling for a 15-round squabble with the winner taking on Jimmy Braddock.

From where we sit, though, it looks very dark for Joe's chances for a crack at the crown under present arrangements. Louis is far better ironed-out to the Twentieth Century Sporting Club. The Madison Square Garden has Brad-dock hiding behind its protective skirts. The two outfits are farther apart than Bill Terry and the Brooklyn Dodgers. It will take a heaven-given power to bring them together.

FROM BAER'S SIDE

OF THE FENCE
BAER'S BRIDE, a sensible gal, says she's glad it's over and that Max got himself licked. She wants him all to her sweet self. She can have him, so far as a lot of the boys are concerned. Still, there are a lot of us who are sorry to see the colorful kid pass out. He was good copy in the settee. Max said he had some, or words to that effect, but also declared this: "I could hear the count all right. But my legs were numb. There were so many Louises in front of my eyes I thought all Harlem had gotten into the ring. There were so many dark clouds there this little ray of sunshine just couldn't get through. I never could get started."

"Maybe I'm a big sissy, anyway. But there's two more things I'd like to do before I go back to my California ranch with my wife. I'd like to tell that (you know) boxing commission what I think about it and I'd like to tell a lot of you newspapermen the same thing."

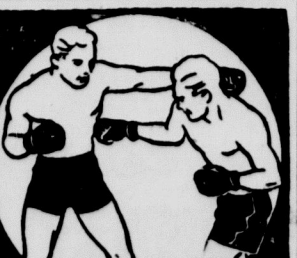

Several of the boys very politely expressed a desire to return the compliment.

FOOTE CHANGES SAINTS FOR PASADENA

TAR PUNCHER FACES NEW KAYO KING

Anaheim's Don Benzor Tackles Sam Vasquez in Semi-Windup

For the third consecutive week, one of the great light-heavy-weight scrappers in Uncle Sam's navy—Sailor Jack Hipps (Swivel) Hipps of the U.S.S. Tennessee—headlines the Orange County Athletic club's eight-bout amateur boxing card in a four-round tonight.

Twice triumphant over "Fighting" Frankie Herrera, the tough-jawed Los Alamitos Mexican, Hipps meets the sensational Huntington Park kayo king, Red Devita. The latter replaces "Tiger" Woods, Central avenue Negro, who passed up the Hipps fight at the eleventh hour due to a badly damaged right hand.

Two-Handed Sock
Devita, an Italian with a sock in both hands and a brilliant record of kayo victories to his credit, is expected to give the navy gladiator a tougher fight than he experienced in either Herrera scrap.

When "Pop" Andre, assistant matchmaker, switched from Devita to Devita, he made a move that failed to give Hipps a "break" as the Huntington Park leatherpusher is rated a deal higher than the Negro and will come nearer stopping Hipps than any other 175-pounder in Southern California a major rank.

Should Hipps turn in another winning fight he will become one of the club's greatest attractions, inasmuch as he is a crowd pleaser, a good puncher and a willing mixer.

Fight Holzhauser
Bud Holzhauser, the "Blond Bomber" from Long Beach who is tentatively signed to box the main event next week, will be sitting ringside as the winner in all probability will face Holzhauser.

Don Benzor, Anaheim 120-pounder, who holds a win over Lupe Cardoza, steps out in the four-round semi-final against Sammy Vasquez, Los Angeles Italian. Benzor is one of the outstanding lads of his weight hereabouts and should win a hard-fought battle from the game Vasquez.

Paul Saucedo, another Anaheim product, tackles Sailor Bowen in the special. Other lads scheduled to appear are Sailor Dye, Clover Wilson, Tino Munos, Henry Lowe, Johnny Chavez and Willie Fields.

UTAH TEAM IN L.A. FOR GAME

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (AP)—Intercollegiate football interest was fired today as a train brought 40 Utah State college players here for a game tomorrow night with the Bruins of California at Los Angeles.

A drill in the Rose Bowl at 5 p. m. was scheduled for the visitors, and Coach Dick Romney, it was understood, has issued no invitations to the curious to attend.

Out on the Westwood campus, Coach Bill Spaulding called final practice before taking his men to a hideout in the Beverly Hills Hotel, where they'll listen to chalk talks until game time.

Rain Halts Card-Cub Game

TWO TUSSLES BILLED FOR TOMORROW

Frischmen Need to Win Four in Line; Lights Blazing for Chicago

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Rain today forced a postponement of the second game of the Cardinals, who will definitely determine if the world's champion St. Louis club can halt the rampaging and pennant-bound men of Grimm.

A double header will be played tomorrow, the first game beginning at 12:45 p. m. (CST). Frankie Frisch will call on his final, Dizzy Dean, Friday in one final, desperate attempt to cheat the Grimm Reapers of 1935 major league baseball, the Chicago Cubs. Four games down and only four to go to a club that has cut down opposition 19 straight times since Sept. 4, the disappointed leader of the St. Louis Cardinals hoped almost against hope that the great Dizzy could revive the winning spark of his men and then go on to salvage the wreckage of the once proud and unbeatable team that captured world's championship honors against Detroit a year ago.

Hopeless Outlook

But it was a hopeless outlook. The question wasn't who would win the pennant any more. It was, "How long will it take?" The lights were low for the Cardinals. They were blazing for the Cubs, who were coarsely of strutting into the throne room of the National league today behind their young rookie, "General" Bill Lee, a right-hander who has won 19 and lost only 6 this season. The best the Cardinals could hope for was four straight victories and a playoff.

Louie Varneke and 19-year-old Phil Cavarretta released the fumes that all but asphyxiated the last lingering hopes of the famous "gashouse gang" yesterday when they combined to drop them on the ropes with a 1-to-0 shutout in the first struggle of the five-game series. Cavarretta produced the winning blow with a long second-inning home run.

Gives Only Two Hits
Varneke pitched so superbly he allowed but two hits—a single by Lynn King in the fourth inning and a fluke double to Ripper Collins in the eighth. Only 28 batters faced him.

Paul Dean, Dizzy's younger and silent brother, allowed but seven hits, none of them harmful except the long blow that Cavarretta propelled over the right-field wall. "We'll clinch the pennant today," shouted the merry Cub leader, Charlie Grimm, "but we're not going to slow up. We're going after five straight."

Bites 'N' Bait

Contrary to some reports being circulated through Southern California the deep sea fishing season at San Diego is not at an end. On the contrary the "Sea Angler" and several other live bait boats continue to hold their schedules and their patrons.

LIVE BAIT TROUBLES

Due to the most spectacular run of yellowfin tuna and skipjack in local offshore waters in many years, and the fact that some 70 live bait boats are engaged commercially, 30 or more coming down from San Pedro, the strain on live bait supplies at the Point Loma area has been great. In addition, the seiners under contract to deliver racehorse sardines to sport anglers have, in several cases switched to tuna fishing for the canneries. Hence the necessity of some sport fishing boats to cease operations.

SLUMP AT LOS CORONADOS

The sudden slump in yellowtail and bluefin tuna catches at the Mexican islands doesn't mean a thing. At this same time last season we experienced the same conditions. Yet, a few days later and until nearly the end of October we had some of the finest deep sea sport, both for tuna and for yellowtail that was enjoyed during the entire season.

FISHING TUNA AT BANKS

Capt. Bill Miller today switched from the Coronado islands to the Twelve-Mile bank and got a fair return of yellowfin tuna. The catch would have been heavier except that Bill felt obliged, in order to satisfy his 50 passengers, to cruise the Coronado islands' banks first. Tomorrow the "Sea Angler" will follow the great herds of commercial boats to the banks.

He Referees At Coliseum

Reece (Pinky) Greene, Santa Ana High school's basketball and track coach who assists W. W. (Bill) Foote during grid season, makes his debut as a big-time football official Saturday.

He has been selected to referee the U. S. C-Montana varsity game in the Los Angeles Coliseum. On Nov. 15 he will officiate as field judge during the U. C. L. A.-Hawaii fray at the Coliseum.

DON GRIDDRERS READY FOR POMONA

Santa Ana Junior college's first and second strings will be in perfect condition for the invasion of Pomona college varsity football forces at the Municipal bowl tomorrow night.

Quarterback Bruce Harnois, petite letterman, is shelled with a torn ligament in his right knee, but Coach Bill Cook was not counting on using him against Pomona anyway, because he has reported for only a couple of early drills.

The Dons' present first-string safeties, Joe Herbert of Fullerton and Oliver McCarter of Orange, are in fine condition. So are Walt Hickman and Dick Moore, brilliant fullbacks; and John Lehnhardt and Al Lamb, halves. Harnois' absence will not handicap the collegians, since Cook's backfield talent is three-deep. The little speedster can, however, be used to advantage upon his return in a few days.

Rapid development of some of their reserves has greatly pleased Coaches Cook and Reboin. Dick Connell, the dark-haired freshman from Nebraska, had only slight experience in high school, but he is making great headway at guard. One of the standout linemen in yesterday's drill was Carl Benson of Tustin, well-built tackle. Other reserves coming along nicely are Les Minder and Hal Mosiman, pint-sized guards; Bain Alexander, tackle and guard; Leo Marshall, tackle; and Vernon Koepsel, 10-second sprinter out for quarterback.

Clarence Bolton, Santa Ana's 6:2 left tackle weighing 190 pounds, will not be the giant in the starting lineups tomorrow. Dave Shephardson, Pomona's left tackle, stands 6 ft. 4 in., weighs an even 200. Playing part of the game next to Shephardson at the guard spot will be Johnny (Scooter) Wilcox, 143-pounder.

LOCAL GOLFERS WIN AT BEACH

Two Willowick representatives—Mrs. Charles Chapman and Mrs. Maxine Miller—and Mrs. J. K. McDonald, Huntington Beach, annexed Class A honors in the South Coast Public Links golf tournament for women at Huntington Beach yesterday.

Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. McDonald tied with a low gross of 87. Low net was won by Mrs. Miller with a card of 89-20-69. Mrs. Inez Giese, Long Beach, won low gross in Class B with a score of 95. Mrs. Mary Barman, also of Long Beach, took low net with 100-26-74.

The next association event will be held at the Willowick course in Santa Ana Oct. 16.

All are non-conference affairs.

SZABO TO FACE MOUNTAIN

Man Mountain Dean and Sandor Szabo, the Hungarian Adonis, have been signed by Promoter Sam Sampson of the Orange County Athletic club for a three-fall finish wrestling match to headline Monday night's four-bout card.

Several months ago Dean, who agreed to toss Szabo in a 20-minute time limit bout, failed to do so, in fact the bearded giant suffered a good "going over" at the hands of the handsome Hungarian. Two weeks ago the pair waged a furious one-hour draw at San Francisco, leading Sampson to believe that Szabo is the one man hereabouts capable of crushing the huge Brooklyn hillbilly.

Szabo defeated Roughhouse Carone Monday night, marking Carone's first upset in the local ring. Two flying tackle stars—former gridiron greats—Casey Kazanjian of Stanford University and Al Bisognano of Fordham—appear in supporting bouts. Kazanjian meets Hugh Clapham of England, while Bisognano goes up against Fred Carone.

TROJANS POINT FOR ILLINOIS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (AP)—Montana opposes them Saturday in the season's opener, but the Trojans of Southern California have their minds on the Illinois game two weeks away as they go through their football chores.

With the names of several sophomores included, Coach Howard Jones had his starting lineup selected today. It was: Thurlow, Kuhn, c.; Brosseau, r. g.; Jorgensen, r. t.; Williams, r. e.; Davis, q.; Sutherland, l. h.; Clark, r. h.; Howard, f.

THE WINNAH!

'Gus the Goat' Butts Man Mountain Dean Into Submission

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (AP) Gus Sonnenberg, the wrestling ring's "human billy goat" from Boston, had evened the score today with Man Mountain Dean, so-called Georgia hillbilly.

After taking the first fall here last night, Dean was catapulted twice into the lap of Mama Man Mountain, a spectator, by Sonnenberg and was unable to continue. Last year Dean's broadjumping tactics earned him a victory over his foe at San Francisco. Dean weighed 317 pounds and Sonnenberg 210.

JOE TO MAKE MILLION IN NEXT YEAR

World Tour, Two Fights in New York Can Net Fortune for Joe

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Joe Louis, the first uncrowned fistic king to contemplate a world tour in royal style, expects to reap a million-dollar harvest within the next year for himself and his backers.

Already an international sensation, the 21-year-old Negro probably can capitalize his current fame to the tune of $500,000 on a fighting tour of Latin America and European capitals next winter.

Half Million in N. Y.

He can collect at least another half million for two "big shots" in New York in 1936, the first bout in June with Max Schmeling, German ex-champion, and the second against James J. Braddock in a title match in September.

These are the main features of the fighting program expected to take shape under the direction of Mike Jacobs, ticket broker, who has become kingpin among fight promoters. Jacobs and the Negro's managers have come to terms on a five-year agreement giving the promoter exclusive rights to the battling bridegroom's fighting services.

Romance hasn't lowered his affection for the roped arena. He dashed from the altar to the Yankee stadium to smash Max Baer into fistic oblivion.

November Fight

He is booked for his next match in New York the end of November for charity, with either Walter Neusel, the German, or the giant Ray Impellitteri, but the possibility of being out of the ring for two months looms him.

Jack Sharkey, the retired former heavyweight champion, has manifested an interest in a comeback with Louis—"providing," he says, "they put it on the line."

Sharkey saw Louis knock out Baer. He went away impressed but remarked he was close to fighting weight, that he would be in a receptive mood for a "good proposition" and that he would like a "shot" at the Bomber. Jacobs may accommodate him.

More Cannon Fodder

Then there's Charley Rietzaff, the Minnesota star who added Art Laskey to his victims and who looms as a mid-western possibility for "cannon fodder." Ford Smith, Montana heavyweight, who decisively whipped Max's brother, Buddy Baer, in the final bout of Tuesday night, is another possibility among the heavyweights new comers. Smith also numbers Laskey on his knockout list.

Louis will emulate the renowned John L. Sullivan and take on "anybody in the house."

Gallant as champion as Braddock may be, there's no doubt in the minds of those who have seen Louis at his craft that the Choccolate Soldier will whip the Jerseyman any time they meet. Game as they come and a good boxer, the champion might extend Louis, but it is difficult to imagine him lasting long under the drumfire of Joe's attack.

400-LB. BLACK SEA BASS MALIBU PRIZE

MALIBU, Cal., Sept. 26. (AP)—Marking one of the best weeks of the season for salt water game fish, the taking of a giant black sea bass weighing 400 pounds was reported today by Al Camp, of Malibu pier. Camp said the prize, the second of its kind to be caught during the week, was landed by M. E. Grey, Los Angeles, on the Minnie Caine barge.

SEALS TRIUMPH IN TITLE GAME

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP) Brezzing along under the momentum which carried them to victory in the second half of the split 1935 season, the San Francisco Seals today were within comfortable striking distance of their first Coast league baseball pennant since 1931.

Manager "Lefty" O'Doul's slugger winning 7-5, made it two in a row over the Los Angeles Angels, first half winners, yesterday and needed but two more wins to clinch the title.

Yesterday's contest saw the Seals come from behind twice in a game which started out as a free-for-all battle and ended up in a fine mound battle between a pair of relief hurlers, Jim Densmore of the Seals and Glenn Gabel of the Angels.

Joe Dimaggio, hard smacking Seal outfielder, put the game on ice in the fifth, when he poked out a lousy homer to score Joe Marty, who had walked, ahead of him.

The Angels opened the shooting in the first to score on Lillard's single and Oglesby's double. The Seals came back in their half of the inning with a four-run barrage that drove Millard Campbell, starting pitcher, to the showers. Singles by Powers, Marty, Dimaggio, Norbert and Woodall gave Angel fielders a busy inning.

The usually reliable Vin Ballou, who started for the Seals, yielded to Densmore in the second as the Angels started a four-run rally of their own which sent them into a brief lead. Densmore went in after two runs had scored and three men were on base. Oglesby's double sent two more tallies across, but thereafter Densmore held the opposition to two singles.

The Seals knotted the count in the last of the second, Garibaldi tripling and coming home on Powers' long fly to Gudat. The fifth inning burst ended the scoring.

Wild Bill Sangster, 164-pound fullback, will be the most dreaded of the Pasadenans, coached by New Stark, star end on Santa Ana's 1921 champions and graduates

ROOSEVELT'S APPEALS TO CLERGY HIT

'Good Political Move' Says Rabbi; Others Praise Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—News dispatches from widely scattered sections indicated today that clergymen were offering varied, sometimes critical, suggestions in response to President Roosevelt's request for their "counsel and advice."

A San Francisco pastor said he would suggest that the President "remain true to the constitution" while a Chicago rabbi said the President's letter to the clergy was a "practical, as well as good political move."

President Sought Advice
The President addressed his letter to representative clergymen in all parts of the country, saying that "because of the grave responsibilities of my office," he was "turning to representative clergymen for counsel and advice, feeling confident that no group can give more accurate or unbiased views."

In response, Dr. David M. Steele, rector emeritus of the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany, of Philadelphia, in an "open letter" accused the President of "playing politics on the low plane with which you have made us all familiar."

'Good Political Move'
"The President's gesture in taking the clergy into his confidence is a very practical as well as a good political move. My personal response will be to the hope that every socially minded citizen will support the President's social security legislation."

In San Francisco, Rev. Julia C. McPheters, pastor of the Glads Memorial Methodist church, said he would suggest that the President call a day of prayer, of all religious groups "to seek the hand of God in guiding men."

VETS GIVEN NEW CHANCE TO FILE FOR COMPENSATION

World war veterans who have failed to file their applications for adjusted compensation are being given another chance, according to Harry Edwards, veterans' welfare officer for the county.

Mr. Edwards announced that the time for filing applications for the bonus has been extended to Jan. 2, 1940. This ruling also applies to widows, mothers and orphan children of World War veterans. It was also announced by Mr. Edwards that under a recent ruling, those men who served in the regular army in peace time and who have a service connected disability may receive treatment regardless of whether they were given a surgeon's certificate of disability at the time of their discharge from the service.

SUNDOWN STORIES

The Show Continues
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Willy Nilly, the little man, together with his animal friends, had gone to a county fair where they were taking part in a side show.

The owner of the show was delighted, for he was now doing an excellent business, and the crowds were coming to them after a long stretch of dullness. And it was all because of the Puddle Muddlers.

The giant, who had been a part of the show, now only stood outside the tent telling the people about the show inside. He did not have to do any acts at all. And the stuffed, two-headed owl was not used any more.

Both Performed
Top Notch, the rooster, had performed, and so had Christopher Columbus Crow.

Now Willy Nilly called for Rip, the dog. Rip came running out from behind the curtain and stood on the platform.

"Rip," said Willy Nilly, "what do you do when you want to go to bed at night?" Rip was a trifle nervous, but he had rehearsed his act.

He went up to Willy Nilly, wagged his tail, and licked Willy Nilly's hands.

"Ah," said Willy Nilly, "I understand, you're saying good-night to me, eh?"

"Bow-wow-wow," barked Rip in agreement.

"Very well," said Willy Nilly, "you may go to sleep now." Rip turned around three times and then got down on the platform, put his head on his front paws and closed his eyes.

The people all stood up to get a good look at Rip.

"Isn't he cute?" the people murmured and Rip was very proud.

His Excellency—

The Governor of New York

New York state's governor, Herbert H. Lehman, gave up a $2,000,000 a year job when he entered politics in 1928 under the wing of President Roosevelt, then governor.

Severing all connections with his vast business enterprises, he became lieutenant governor that year and has been in the state service ever since. . . . First lieutenant governor in nearly 30 years to succeed to the governorship, he is now in his second term. . . . 57 years old, he has been a textile manufacturer, believing that the names of the counties of California, including a few salient facts about each county.

Created April 19, 1856. The word "Fresno" in Spanish signifies "ash tree," and it was because of the abundance of mountain ash in the mountains of this county that it received its name.

Fresno is California's sixth largest county. After losing 2000 square miles for the creation of two new political subdivisions it remains three times the size of the state of Delaware. Fifty years ago the county was a part of arid plains, wheat growing was a gamble against the rainfall; sheep and cattle roamed over immense areas. Land was almost free, so unpromising were conditions with regard to irrigation. Today approximately 550,000 acres are irrigated and 1,490,477 are under cultivation. Fruit orchards cover 300,000 acres, or nearly 469 square miles, and the county ranks second in the state with 10,334 farms.

The United States department of agriculture rates it as one of the richest, agriculturally, in America. Fresno produces 27 per cent of the country's grapes, 32 per cent of the figs and 10 per cent of the peaches.

Kettleman Hills, one of the oldest oil-producing districts in California, are in western Fresno. Statistics show that Fresno county shows a greater consumption of electricity per capita than any other section of its kind in the United States.

In addition to a portion of General Grant National park, Fresno has many beauty spots for the lovers of the outdoors. Population: 144,379. Area: 5850 square miles.

NIGHT CLASSES ARE CHANGED

When Santa Ana Evening High school classes open Sept. 30, a number of changes from the program of last year will be inaugurated, Mrs. Golden Weston, director, said today.

Not long ago the organization, formerly known as the Municipal band, came under the auspices of the Evening High school. This band meets each Wednesday evening in the music building at 1012 North Main street with Leland Auer in charge. The Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, for some time under the direction of Elwood Bear, is also under the auspices of the Evening High school this year. This organization meets each Monday in the First M. E. church, Sixth and Spurgeon.

Another new music organization is the Symphonic band under Mr. Auer's direction, meeting Tuesday evening in the music room at 1012 North Main street. This organization devotes itself to more modern music.

Any musician will be welcome to try out for these organizations. In addition, there will be a men's chorus, a women's chorus, and a class in harmony offered by Dorothy Page Harper. The men's chorus will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening, the women's chorus at the Y. W. C. A. Monday afternoon, and the harmony class at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday morning.

Wednesday evening at the Lathrop Evening High school will be inaugurated a new class in office practice. Letter-writing, filing, and general office etiquette will be stressed. Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p. m. a new class in sketching and painting will start under Miss Ruth Peabody, an artist of considerable reputation who has had much experience in instruction.

The swimming pool at the high school will be kept open four evenings each week instead of two as heretofore. Tuesday and Thursday evenings will be reserved for women, but on Mondays and Wednesdays men may swim also. Women's swimming will be under Miss Marion Parsons, and on mixed nights she will be assisted by Norman Paul. Mr. Paul will be in charge of the men's gymnasium classes which meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings in the high school gymnasium.

All efforts are being made to build the "Music Hall" for the day Bing Crosby takes it over, Dec. 5.

The broadcast will mark Miss Froman's first appearance of the season. She has been spending all of her time of late movie making.

Johnny Murray, who ushers KFWB's "Varieties" every Thursday at 8:15, enacts a triple-threat role. In addition to his miking duties, Murray writes many of the VARIETY skits and produces the forty-five minutes. And he says it's not such a simple task, either. After the show, the cast go into a huddle, criticizing each other's performances. Together they discuss next week's show.

This session usually lasts about an hour. After which Papa Johnny tells them all to go home, get a lot of rest, and to forget about their work over the week-end.

At 9 o'clock, Monday morning, they report to Johnny, who, in turn, MEETINGS more huddling, and generally emerge with a sketch of what Thursday's show is to be like.

Tuesday and Wednesday is spent writing, polishing up acts and setting the music with Jack Joy.

Thursday morning, 9 o'clock again, they're all assembled and rehearse until 6. An hour for dinner, relaxation, and then the broadcast.

After which they do it all over again. Some fun.

KNX highlights its evening offering with an interview with Beaufort West, world traveler, lecturer, and author on east African affairs. He is now in Hollywood assigned to prepare scenarios dealing with the Ethiopian situation in general.

Announcer Thomas Freeborn Smith will question West on the major issues involved in the present Italy-Ethiopia conflict and their significance in subsequent world affairs.

The broadcast will be heard at 8 o'clock.

Frank N. Belgrano Jr., National Commander of the SUCCESSION American Legion, will introduce the newly elected commander over KJH-CBS at 7:30. The broadcast will come from St. Louis where the legion members are conventioning.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS
By HOMER CANFIELD
JANE FROMAN, ACE TORCH SINGER; Jan Rubini, local concert violinist who has successfully invaded the eastern field; Armand Tokatyan, former Metropolitan tenor, and Bob Burns, another home town boy who's made MUSIC HALL good, will all be heard during Paul Whitehead's show, KFT-NBC, 6 to 7 o'clock. Burns, the "Bazooka" player, is the first artist to get a return engagement on this program.

All efforts are being made to build the "Music Hall" for the day Bing Crosby takes it over, Dec. 5.

The broadcast will mark Miss Froman's first appearance of the season. She has been spending all of her time of late movie making.

Johnny Murray, who ushers KFWB's "Varieties" every Thursday at 8:15, enacts a triple-threat role. In addition to his miking duties, Murray writes many of the VARIETY skits and produces the forty-five minutes. And he says it's not such a simple task, either. After the show, the cast go into a huddle, criticizing each other's performances. Together they discuss next week's show.

This session usually lasts about an hour. After which Papa Johnny tells them all to go home, get a lot of rest, and to forget about their work over the week-end.

At 9 o'clock, Monday morning, they report to Johnny, who, in turn, MEETINGS more huddling, and generally emerge with a sketch of what Thursday's show is to be like.

Tuesday and Wednesday is spent writing, polishing up acts and setting the music with Jack Joy.

Thursday morning, 9 o'clock again, they're all assembled and rehearse until 6. An hour for dinner, relaxation, and then the broadcast.

After which they do it all over again. Some fun.

KNX highlights its evening offering with an interview with Beaufort West, world traveler, lecturer, and author on east African affairs. He is now in Hollywood assigned to prepare scenarios dealing with the Ethiopian situation in general.

Announcer Thomas Freeborn Smith will question West on the major issues involved in the present Italy-Ethiopia conflict and their significance in subsequent world affairs.

The broadcast will be heard at 8 o'clock.

Frank N. Belgrano Jr., National Commander of the SUCCESSION American Legion, will introduce the newly elected commander over KJH-CBS at 7:30. The broadcast will come from St. Louis where the legion members are conventioning.

COMPLETED PLANS FOR TOUR TO DAM SITE OCT. 2 ANNOUNCED

CARAVAN TO BEGIN 8 A.M. AT OLIVE

Public Invited to Make Trip; Thompson Will Speak at Prado

Orange county citizens are going to see for themselves why water levels in this section are going down.

They are going to make a trip Oct. 2 to the water spreading grounds on Lytle creek, one of the canyons where flood waters of the Santa Ana river which otherwise might come to Orange county are held back in the upper canyons. On the same excursion they will view the upper Prado site, where it is proposed to build a dam so that Orange county can demand its share of these waters and have a place to store them.

Plans for the tour, which is open to anyone, were made public today. The trip is being arranged by Walter F. Meier, Orange, chairman of the transportation committee of the associated chambers of commerce. Reservations may be made at any chamber of commerce office, Mr. Meier said.

County to Vote Oct. 4
Orange county is scheduled to vote Oct. 4 on a $6,820,000 bond issue to help finance a water conservation and flood control program, for which it is expected that a federal grant of $6,674,000 will be received. The trip has been arranged because it is felt a first-hand view of the water conditions will be of material assistance in deciding how to vote on the bond question.

The caravan will start at 8 a. m. from Olive. It will go past the Prado site, over the Chino road to the Lytle creek spreading grounds. These works are typical of other vast spreading operations in a dozen canyons flowing into the Santa Ana river.

At Dam Site 2 p. m.
The return trip will go through the West Riverside district and the Pedley bridge, where a large acreage which once flourished as a citrus area, has since become barren country through diversion of water to other localities. The Prado dam site will be reached about 2 p. m.

Here Murray N. Thompson, county flood control engineer, will explain the Prado reservoir construction plans. A loud speaker will amplify his remarks.

Mr. Meier explained that those who find it impossible to make the morning tour may meet the caravan at the Prado site at 2 p. m. Arrangements will be made for serving box lunches to those on the all-day trip. A motorcycle escort from the Orange county squad of the California highway patrol will be provided, said Mr. Meier.

SERVICES FRIDAY FOR MRS. LATIMER

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday for Mrs. Emily Corkish Latimer, 61, who died yesterday at her home, 826 South Garnsey street. She had lived in Santa Ana 14 years.

Services will be held from the chapel of the Wimbler mortuary, and the Rev. W. J. Hatter of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah will officiate. Burial will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

One Area of County Once 'Dried Up and Blew Away' Because of Lack of Water

Right now most everybody in Orange county is thinking of water. Way back into the early history of Orange county—or rather the territory then known only to the padres and the Mexicans—irrigation was practiced. Soon afterward the white man found he could use water from the Santa Ana. Then began the great drama which has extended to the present. The Journal in a series of articles, will picture the early day struggles, the successes and failures, that marked man's effort to make the desert bloom.—Editor.

By ROCH BRADSHAW
The district where Garden Grove now lies "dried up and blew away" once for lack of water. Experience in that region is perhaps the most graphic illustration of the need for conservation. It shows what happens when existing supplies are allowed to waste.

Wells for irrigation were not very common in pioneer days. In the Garden Grove region there was lots of water near the surface. Crops thrived and farmers prospered without watering their farms. Artesian water was common and when wells were drilled, they flowed without pumping. This was true in other nearby areas also.

Simple In Early Days
Judge W. H. Bentley recalls that in the early days about Westminster, digging a well was a simple process. Shepherders, when they wanted water, could dig a few feet with a shovel and then sink their pipe by an unusual method. They simply put a perforated point on a two-inch pipe, drove it into the ground with a sledge hammer and then sat back to watch the water flow. One of these wells is still in use in Westminster, Judge Bentley said.

In fact water was so cheap that some of those who had artesian wells allowed them to flow continually. It was recalled yesterday by Sterling Price, who was born in the Garden Grove area in 1874. As more wells were dug and more artesian water flowed into drainage ditches, the time came when the "inexhaustible supply" of water began to become exhausted.

Dry Year In 1893
The dry year in the Garden Grove district came in 1893. Water didn't flow any more. There were no power pumps to bring it to the surface until later years. A. F. Walker, another pioneer who remembers the dry days in the Garden Grove section, recalls that figuratively, this area "dried up and blew away."

It was about 1910 that the Garden Grove region really began to come back. The arrival of the Pacific Electric railway helped in the revival. In the meantime water had been developed by deep well drilling and application of power. Citrus groves, tomato and pepper fields now cover the Garden Grove area. But artesian water doesn't flow any more.

Drilling of the first well in the Orange region started a well boom, Margaret Gardner recalls in her history of that community. The hole was dug for a domestic supply, rather than for irrigation, by J. D. Parker, who built a home at Chapman avenue and Main street in 1874. His son, J. E. Parker, told how the well came to be dug.

Hit Water At 15 Feet
For two years the family had been hauling water from a supply at the Orange plaza. But it seemed that the household always ran out of water just at the time the boys were off hunting. The father decided on a novel experiment—digging a well.

"We'll dig as deep as we can, and then if we don't strike water, we'll move away," he said. "We can't go on living this way." They struck water at a depth of 15 feet.

For the next few days, Mr. Parker recalled, when friends met on the street and inquired "What are you doing now?" the reply was, "I was doing so and so, but I've laid off for awhile. I'm digging a well."

People are still digging wells in Orange county, but they don't strike water often at 15 feet.

PRESIDENT TO GIVE FOUR SPEECHES

Western Itinerary Will Include Talk in L. A. at Hollywood Bowl

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt would make four speeches on his trip across the country beginning tonight, the first a brief farm talk at Fremont, Neb., Saturday afternoon.

The other set speeches will be at Boulder dam next Monday about noon; at Los Angeles in the Hollywood Bowl, a brief speech Tuesday afternoon, and at San Diego, Wednesday afternoon.

Stephen T. Early, a presidential secretary, in announcing the speechmaking itinerary, said the Boulder dam and San Diego addresses would be the main ones. He added the Fremont speech, latest to be put on the itinerary, would be a brief word of greeting, either from the train platform or a speaker's stand alongside the private car. The address there, it was announced, would be intended to interest the farm states of the Midwest.

The Fremont speech must necessarily be short because the train will stop there only 20 minutes. The subjects of the other speeches will be withheld. However, the one at Boulder dam is expected to deal with a history of the long fight culminating in this huge flood control works on the Colorado river which is being dedicated next Monday.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who will accompany the President westward tonight, will speak at the Hollywood Bowl at 3 p. m. Tuesday.

Speaking on "War Talk," Bert Lawver won second place in the contest with a discussion of the economic and historical background of the Italian-Ethiopian situation.

Orville Northrup, speaking on "When Credit Unions Become of Age," told the history, growth and operation of the unions now operating in the United States.

The "Closing Chapter" was the subject of the talk given by Henry Bosch in which he recalled war-time experiences of the veterans who lost their lives in the recent hurricane on the Florida Keys, and contrasted it with the manner in which they met death.

J. Lee Hewitt, discussing the proper method of use in reading ancient literature such as the early books of the Bible, suggested that they be read understandingly instead of criticizing.

The major volcanic eruption of Mt. Lassen which started in 1914 and continued for a period of several years was discussed by Le-Ray Quick.

Max Freeman was toastmaster of the evening with Eugene Kruger as general critic. John Henderson, H. O. Ensign, Mr. Norland and John Akerman were visitors to the club.

THIN TIRES MAY BRING ARREST

Santa Ana automobile drivers, and all other California operators for that matter, will be interested and concerned about a recent decision of the Appellate court and its interpretation by Highway Patrol Chief E. Raymond Cato, which holds motorists liable for arrest if the tires on their speeding automobiles are dangerously worn, according to a tire company manager.

J. E. Wacksmuth, a Los Angeles dealer, discussing this decision, says: "Speed, in itself, is not dangerous if conditions of highways, weather and automobile are propitious, and if the driver observes ordinary road courtesy. But speeding is dangerous on bald tires, when brakes or lights are defective, when the driver's compartment is overcrowded, and when the windshield is faulty or vision is impaired by stickers, dirt or rain."

Local tire dealers agree with Mr. Wacksmuth, but have not stressed the danger of using worn tires, although they recognize the risk that their use entails.

"Water Conservation" was the subject of the talk given by Arthur Woodworth which won him first place in the speaking contest held by Smedley chapter of Toastmaster's International at its meeting last evening at James cafe.

Mr. Woodworth advised a serious study of the approaching flood control and water conservation bond election and recalled the history of flood damage in Orange county.

CITY SAVES ON PARKING LINES

Councilman Ernest Layton explained today how the city is spending money to save money on markers for angle parking stalls in the business district.

Painting lines on the pavement is too expensive, he said. Therefore permanent aluminum markers are being installed on the lines. Mr. Layton said the cost of three or four paintings will pay for the metal markers. After that the cost of maintaining them will be virtually nothing.

Wear and oil dripping on the painted lines quickly obliterate them, he said. The first markers have been installed on part of the block on West Fourth street between Ross and Van Ness streets. This has been done to determine the proper angle for the lines and the number of markers necessary. When these facts have been decided upon, the metal markers will be placed on all angle parking lines and pedestrian zone lines in the business section, said Mr. Layton.

RELIEF SURVEY TO BE STUDIED

First analysis of the state-wide survey of welfare problems now being made is scheduled for Friday morning when the relief committee of the California State Supervisors' association meets in Los Angeles.

Following the analysis of preliminary reports on the survey the relief committee will either approve the reports for submission to the state emergency relief commission or submit a minority report to the group.

The state emergency relief commission will go into session Oct. 5, at which time the results of the survey will be submitted. The survey, according to Supervisor W. C. Jerome, who is a member of the relief committee of the supervisors' association, is a crystallization of efforts that for the past two years have been aimed at division of direct and work relief agencies.

He explained that administration of relief at this time is experiencing a costly duplication of administrative efforts that could be eliminated by divorcing direct relief from Works Progress administration and placing it in the hands of county authorities for administration through welfare departments, and be assisted by state and federal funds allocated for the purpose. In this way, he said, more state, federal and county money would be available for actual relief through reduction of administrative overhead.

Mussolini is in an awfully tight spot.

So spoke Dr. E. W. Bysshe of the Wilshire avenue Methodist church, Los Angeles, at a meeting of the Brotherhood of the First Methodist church here Tuesday night.

"Mussolini can't do a thing he has set out to do and he is in an awfully tight spot that he himself has got himself and his people into," said Dr. Bysshe.

The speaker, who was in France throughout the World war and after it was over, addressed the Brotherhood on international problems and war.

WALNUT PLAN REACTION TO BE HEARD

Meeting Here Monday Allows Growers to Air Opinions

The reaction of Orange and San Diego county walnut growers to the proposed new walnut control plan for the 1935-1936 season will be revealed at a meeting to be held here next Monday. Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg today made public plans for the gathering, which will take place in the Willard Junior High school auditorium at 2 p. m. Monday.

The Santa Ana session will be one of five to be held throughout the state to give the growers a chance to express themselves on this subject, Mr. Wahlberg said.

Two of Speakers
Banks Collings, representing the Agricultural Adjustment administration at Washington, D. C., and F. R. Wilcox, marketing specialist for the University of California, will be two of the chief speakers. "Provisions of the agreement and order under consideration would provide for surplus control operations, similar to the surplus control provisions of the existing agreement and license," said Mr. Wahlberg. "Under this plan the surplus walnuts would be turned over to the control board in charge of the agreement to dispose of in channels that would not affect the marketing of the portion of the crop for regular domestic consumption of merchantable walnuts."

"It also provides that packers will handle only merchantable walnuts of specified packs and qualities."

"The control board, of nine members and their alternates, is to be selected by the secretary from nominees of various walnut groups. In elections of these nominees by the various groups, packer voting will be on the basis of volume of tonnage packed during the preceding crop year. Each grower, on the other hand, will be entitled to one vote and cooperative packers may cast the votes of all its members for grower-nominees."

New white-bread prices are scheduled to be determined at a conference here tomorrow.

Don't Strain at Gnats, Advice Given by League of Women Voters' Speaker

Program For New Year Talked

Mrs. Arthur Heineman Is Spokesman; Convention Delegates Instructed

By ELLEN SNEBLEY

"In the coming year, think first of the principle responsibilities of the league, and don't let petty problems monopolize your efforts," Mrs. Arthur Heineman of Los Angeles, assistant superintendent of public instruction in the state of California, advised members of the southern conference, League of Women Voters, assembled at the Doris Kathryn tea room yesterday. Instruction of delegates to the coming state convention Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 8 and 9, at Hotel Del Monte, featured the meeting, and as Mrs. Heineman explained each proposed interest of the state league, the women voted on it.

It was decided to recommend inclusion of state supervision of education in CCC camps in the study program of the state, as well as to urge proper enforcement of the teacher tenure law and to work toward sound teacher retirement fund.

"We have as nearly ideal educational laws in the State of California as there have ever been," Mrs. Heineman declared.

Neutrality Discussed
Mrs. Harry Chaplin of Los Angeles, state vice president and presiding officer for the day, opened the morning session and outlined the proposed state budget for the new year. She stressed its economical aspect.

Mrs. Malbone W. Graham of Santa Monica, state chairman of government and international cooperation, urged: "We must study seriously and decide where we stand in the very important problem of American neutrality." She recommended as informative Walter Miller's "The Road to War; America, 1914-1917."

Mrs. Graham also stated that each local league is to decide on its stand in the question, after which a survey will be made and a report of findings returned to the leagues.

Mrs. Arthur Alyn Jones, chairman of government and its operation in the Los Angeles league, discussed phases of legislative study, urging that taxation, administration of justice, and better government personnel be studied by the leagues.

"Visit your local jails, court-houses and city councils, study what you learn, and then inform others," Mrs. Jones advised.

Child Welfare Talked
At the close of the morning session, the league members adjourned to the luncheon room, where after eating they listened to a discussion of child welfare by the national chairman, Mrs. George E. Mangold of Los Angeles.

"We cannot know how much exploitation of children may arise soon, and it is our problem to watch," Mrs. Mangold said. "The passing of the code set up by the administration has thrown the child labor problem open again."

Mrs. Ora C. Heine, president, Mrs. A. Lagassee, Mrs. J. D. Campbell and various other members of the Santa Ana league were hostesses and arranged for the luncheon.

Mrs. Heine announced a called meeting of the Santa Ana league for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

Others present were Mrs. J. D. Campbell, state director, and Mesdames F. L. Wilson, W. W. Tantlinger, Anita Alexander, A. J. Knight, Carrie Watson, E. C. Wilcox, Eleanor Shaver, C. H. Stanley, N. Mary Stoddard Old Ashes Should Be Swept Clean If Second Love Is to Result In Successful Marriage

By MARY STODDARD
Second marriages—"Do they ever turn out happily?" queries a man of 35 who is doubtful right now.

He writes a long letter setting down his life history and of course we cannot print it. But the main facts are these: He divorced his first wife five years ago. He married the second about nine months ago. He knew her since they were children so thought he at last would find peace and happiness.

But his present wife is always referring in a sarcastic manner to his former marriage. Even though she claims to love him very much, it's making them drift apart. What can be done about it, if anything?

Second marriages can and do turn out happily. Getting down to brass tacks, this second wife didn't make the primary adjustment demanded of her when she entered these bonds of matrimony.

The Can Be Happy
The only happy solution of this man's problem is to convince his wife that those things which have happened in two people's lives before they wed, should and must be put behind them. They shadow the future only when we let them. The present and the future are more than enough to occupy anyone. To put behind us the things that are past, and press onward to the new is a wise and practical observance.

A man or woman who marries one who has been married before knows that he or she, while receiving the sum total of affection, just the same is heir to a conditioned love. It may be stronger and more vital because it is. It may be weaker. But that is neither here nor there.

Any sensible woman would realize that she had no part, one way or the other, in her husband's former marital experience, and let it go at that so long as it didn't intrude on her present status.

A wife displays small faith in her husband when she fears the ghost of another day could take him from her. She doesn't credit herself with much charm or self-possession, either. She doesn't treat her husband as a companion and an equal. Her manner says plainly that she wants to hold him in subjection to her.

Leaders Retreat Into Rear Ranks; Short List Moves Up

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—

While there were scattered firm spots in today's stock market, a number of the leaders stepped back into the rear price ranks. Retreating tendencies were attributed mainly to technical factors. Domestic happenings were more encouraging than otherwise and the European outlook was no more disconcerting than for the past several days. Trading verged on dullness.

Here Are Improvers

Among shares that improved moderately in the face of sagging movements elsewhere in the list were American Telephone, Western Union, American Woolen, Preferred and Du Pont. A loss of 2 points was registered by American Can and Case, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Howe Sound, Allied Chemical and Union Pacific yielded a point or so each. Consolidated Gas, Chrysler, General Motors, N. Y. Central, Santa Fe and General Electric were about unchanged to slightly in arrears.

Forecast Irregularities

Although speculative forces were not disposed to get excited over the war situation abroad, pending more reassuring developments commentators generally were forecasting intervals of irregularity in the equities division. The flow of gold to the United States from abroad was being watched closely, not too optimistically by banking quarters.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Approximately 2 cents a bushel sudden jump in corn prices today resulted from official forecasts of frost tonight in seven states.

Anxiety over danger of serious damage to the nation's corn crop was increased. The fact was stressed that much of the corn crop is later than usual, and that the killing frost now being felt in the north is earlier than ordinarily.

Corn closed strong, 1/4-1/2 above yesterday's finish, December 59 1/2-59 3/4; wheat 5/8 off to 1/4 up, December 98 1/2-98 3/4, and oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, with provisions at 17 to 32 cents setback reflecting declines of live prices.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: As compensation for having been sent to Ardmore instead of Bryn Mawr, Emily Felton has found her roommate, Judith Carroll, one of the most charmingly irresponsible girls in Alabama. Emily needed Judith, for Emily's mother is one of those women who think a great deal about duty. Now Judith has persuaded Mrs. Felton to permit Emily to visit the Carroll plantation in the Easter vacation. The Carrolls are all like Judith, Emily finds.

CHAPTER IV DAVID

The Carroll house hadn't the ordered, clipped beauty of her own home, but it had beauty of setting;
of rich red fields in the distance;
of magnificent trees that led to the entrance like an aisle to an altar.

The car stopped before a doorway that wore its rays of sunlight like a coronet, and it seemed to Emily that Bedlam broke loose.
Dogs barked, someone shouted from an upper window, and Judith shouted loudest of all.

Mrs. Carroll met them in the lofty hall; a tall, thin woman in impeccable riding clothes, with the broad "a's" and superfluous "y's" of tide-water Virginia in her voice.
She kissed her daughter briefly but affectionately.

"Judith, my darling! We are about to send out posies. Where did you get that awful hat?"

"I think," she decided abruptly,
"that you'd better wear that daffodil chignon and knock them flat all at once. It won't matter then whether you talk or not, and you can get your bearings."

She obediently wore the chignon;
pale yellow, with a golden-brown girdle toning to the deeper brown of her hair. Judith, who always dressed like a whirlwind and looked like a mannequin, surveyed her critically and reached for the rouge. When she had finished she stepped back and regarded her handiwork.

"God help the poor seamen on a night like this!" she chuckled, and led the way downstairs.

The Carroll living-room was vast, softly lighted, and alive with people who were all drinking high-balls and talking at the tops of their voices.

They kissed Judith, men and women indiscriminately, and welcomed Emily with a gay cordiality that she would have given a great deal to acquire. Mr. Carroll, who was bigger and ruddier than any of them, said teasingly.

"From all I can gather, you're the influence for good that Jude's been needing."

Emily laughed. Already she felt herself catching the spirit of this place. "Oh, I hope not! Influences

Shades of Haunted Pirates Lose Old Hiding Place

LONDON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Shades of many old-time pirates who closed their careers at the end of stout ropes will feel personal losses at the closing of one of London's historic hostels, The Turk's Head.

Its back steps lapped by the Thames, the Turk's Head for 400 years has been a hangout for seafaring men—including pirates. It offered a convenient landing, a sudden getaway.

But it was the pirates who finally ran second to the law who could claim the greatest sentimental attachment to the ancient pub. Over its bar they enjoyed their last "can of bitter."

En route to the gallows, the condemned sea-rovers were permitted to stop for one final quart
—no more, no less. It was supplied by the Turk's Head under a contract with the government.

It brought a pleasant break in the procession and gave the miscreant an opportunity to tell his cronies where he'd be seeing them.

BEEES LEAVE 100 POUNDS OF HONEY IN ATTIC HIDEOUT

BERKELEY, Sept. 26. (AP)—One hundred pounds of honey, accumulated by thousands of bees over a period of eight years, were removed from the attic of the home here of Dr. Kenneth Saunders.

Seepage of honey through the plaster of an attic room led to removal of both bees and honey.

Portions of the roof had to be torn away during the job, and the comb extracted measured 12 feet long, two feet wide and six inches thick.

THE BONDS ARE CHEAPER

AFTER The Journal reaches you today there still will be approximately three hours in which to cast your vote for the school bonds. May we suggest that, if you haven't already been to the polls, you drop everything right now and go forthwith to your polling place? It is not only a duty; it is a privilege to thus register yourself as a friend of boys and girls, to align yourself with the forward-looking, progressive people of Santa Ana.

The need and the practical advantages have been described in detail by members of the board of education, business men, mothers and fathers—in fact everybody who has the real interest of Santa Ana at heart.

And as to the cost: Probably never again will there be an opportunity to obtain a real gift of two dollars for every one we provide. If we reject this generous offer on the part of the government, it is certain we shall have to provide it all ourselves, out of direct taxation. It is cheaper to support the bonds than to defeat them.

FEWER BABIES

THERE is considerable food for thought in the fact that the "average family" in the West now has but one child. Recent figures show that about half our married couples stop with the first baby. Twenty-seven per cent have two children; 11 per cent have three.

The number of families having three or more children has shown a sharp decline in the past few years. Western states have the lowest birth rates in the country—almost in the world.

They also have the highest intelligence standing of any place on earth. But perhaps there is no connection between the two facts.

Now, it is normal to want children, and when the average family goes without or has to be content with one, there is real sacrifice.

Something must outweigh the human desire for youngsters, and it is worth finding out what this is.

Matt Riley, according to reports, is stopping his razor. Three years ago in Washington, D. C., he said he would not shave until the bomb is paid.

THE SEALED SCORPION

BREAKING up an old cement block in Dallas, Texas, the other day, a workman was surprised to find a scorpion. Some of the cement, which was poured in 1915, stuck to its head.

The workman put the scorpion, which had been bleached white, in the sunshine. Not long after, it had regained normal coloring and was quite lively.

Thus is added another to the long list of stories of frogs, horned toads and scorpions living sealed up for years. Just how life can go on without air or nourishment or light, no one seems to know. But there seems little doubt that it does.

When we talk about life, we mean the way animals and human beings live. Deprive them of air for five minutes, water for a few days, food for a few weeks, or light for a year or two, and they die. This knowledge is so vital to humanity that it is hard to realize that some forms of life may not need air, water, food or light for enormous periods.

What we know about toads, frogs and scorpions, lends some color to the theory that life for animals, including human beings, may perhaps be suspended indefinitely. It is easy to dismiss such a theory with a wave of the hand, but it is worth looking into.

A good many theories—almost all of them, in fact—have been airily dismissed by grave thinkers, only to be found later to be true.

Even its author has learned the Kellogg Peace Pact or any other peace pact is just another scrap of paper when greedy nations seek to devour each other. Former Secretary of State Kellogg has resigned as a judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice—and the rest of the judges might as well follow his example. There can be no peace until the world learns and lives Christianity.

STIRRING UP TRADE

WITH THIRTY large sample cases full of manufactured articles, five hustling Japanese business men are traveling about the west, headed east, selling products of their empire. Their trip is financed by the Osaka prefecture.

Among the things these enterprisers have to sell are woolen goods, eyeglasses, dresses, shirts, towels, telescopes and glassware. Prices are very low and the articles, having been meticulously copied from American originals, are attractive to merchants and probably the public.

Of course, several things can be done about this invasion. We can bar out all Japanese products on the theory that their importation throws American workmen out of jobs. But if we do that, Japan can easily retaliate and bar out OUR products.

We can put higher tariffs on importations from Japan and so artificially raise the price here until imported goods cost as much as home-made ones. In that case, Japan also may retaliate and, by barring out American products, throw our workmen out of employment.

Perhaps the best thing to do would be to send a trade mission to Japan, interest the Japanese public in what we have to sell. This would stimulate trade all around, help the shipping business, put men to work. We need MORE trade with Japan, not less.

Whimsies

of O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Sunday dinner at the Cafe Lafayette now and then is among the rites of a coterie of established New Yorkers mostly of French descent. The proprietor of the Lafayette is the man whose $25,000 prize inspired the Lindbergh flight. He has not allowed modernity to trespass too heavily.

There are still marble-topped consoles where patrons with enormously gilded bouquets of brandy, may idle over the ancient game of cubito or the later pleasant known as dominoes. The blue flame of the crepes Suzette dances a flicker at almost every table side.

Along with fashionable is a sprinkle of custom clingers. The starched lady whose ears are ringed with loops of green jade—the type always present in the grill of the Grand Vatel. And the prudent monist with sabbatical black gloves, funeral collar and simply high laps of the 90's.

There is the orchestra trio, moving slowly, playing softly the familiar Viennese waltzes and, of course, the inevitable "Valencia." Outside, to clinch the illusion, there is usually a red-wheeled fiacre whose moulting jehu has managed somehow to retain his patened, leather cocked hat.

I hear many ladies devoted to the reigning diet of crab-meat, lettuce and buttermilk eat their meal before attending luncheons or dinners. Thus fortified, they do not give way to temptations for fattening foods. There has sprung up an art among them in appearing to eat without touching a bite. They go through the semblances without a taste.

They played one of those dirty tricks on Seymour Felix, Ziegfeld's former dance director. He arrived all pig-tails, blackened and calico frocked, was jockeyed to the reception room and shoved in before all those people—people immaculately garbed in evening dress. All he could do was back out looking silly, which he did.

Speaking of silliness, I think the silliest dog is the deaf Boston. An hour ago he came tearing into the workshop like a bat out of hell, tooting a rubberized strip from a pair of suspenders. I pulled at one end and let it snap in his face. He dropped it like a hot cake, backed under a book case and has been peeking and growling at it the fraidy, ever since.

Dorman H. Smith, San Francisco cartoonist, takes issue with the ukase in this column that Mark Twain and W. J. Bryan lent themselves more than most Americans to caricature. Smith maintains Irvin Cobb topped all of forward a quick, hilarious sketch to prove his case. Cobb's jutting front bush eyebrows and what he calls his "South American tapir lips" along with the jaunty upward curl tilt provide material for those grotesque exaggerations the limners love.

There's the cool trickle of clear water over jagged rocks in this puff from a press agent's blurb: "Nola Day, Nordic rhythm singer, latest rave on the Pacific coast radio, was born in Reykjavik, Iceland." A and a lingual rumbaist in Seattle calls attention to a new streamlined ferry in the Puget Sound named Kalakala and pronounced Ka-loch-a-la. Almost a runner up in euphonic beauty was the sledge dog in Wilson Mizner's shone-ne-shash. Then there's that town with the windshield wiper name—Fithian, Illinois.

Thingumabobs: Will Rogers was among the few Henry Ford worshippers and ink letters. Beverly Nichols has an all-rock cottage with ten-foot-wide fireplace in heart of the Cromwell country in England. . . . James Branch Cabell shuns Broadway like a plague on New York visits. . . . He likes to dine at an obscure table at the Brevoort. . . . Francine Larrimore goes nowhere without her pair of Yorkshire terriers. . . . Fannie Hurst has had the same colored secretary all her successful years.

Tales of the recent jinx at the California Bohemian Grove still drift to town. One of the hilarities was Sam Blythe's convention at which Gene Buck was nominated for president of the Heaven Forsaken party on the Buck and Wing ticket. What a Dance Platform!

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—It was not mere chance which timed the meeting of the executive committee of the Republican national committee to coincide approximately with the President's departure for the West. It was deliberate GOP strategy. Republican master-minds, no longer downcast regarding 1936, have adopted the old military axiom: The best defense is a strong attack.

From now on, the tactical objective of the GOP will be to maneuver the Democrats constantly into the defensive. The more explaining the New Dealers have to do, the weaker becomes their position.

This strategy is what is behind the GOP decision to hold their national convention after the Democrats. Traditionally, it is held before. But this year, Republican master-minds don't want to pass up the chance to concentrate a withering barrage on the newly adopted Democratic platform.

OFFICIAL AGENDA

OFFICIALLY, Wednesday's committee meeting dealt chiefly with such prosaic things as:

1. Plans for the 1936 convention—Officially the city and date committee meets in December. Actually yesterday's committee is the power behind the scenes.
2. Finance—The national committee is in the black and more cash is rolling in.
3. National chairmanship—There is agitation to ease out dapper Henry P. Fletcher.

UNOFFICIAL AGENDA

FAR MORE important, however, is an item not listed on the agenda. It is the question of whether the Republican party will go progressive or conservative in 1936; whether it will swing to the Borah-Landon liberals or to the Hoover-Knox conservatives.

The executive committee does not choose candidates. But it does pick the tone. The tune may not be sung aloud for the time being. But the undertone refrain sounded yesterday may be hummed by the leaders during the rest of the presidential campaign year.

What that tune may be can be gauged by a scrutiny of the background character, the wealth or poverty, the associates and experience of the executive committee. Its members are fairly representative of the whole national committee. Here they are:

THE ROLL-CALL

CHAIRMAN Henry Prather Fletcher—scion of a wealthy Pennsylvania family, who adopted the life of diplomacy at the age of 30, and carved out a career notable for personal popularity and the intrepid protection of American interests.

Vice Chairman Ralph E. Williams—small town Oregon banker; began as bookkeeper; worked his way up to the presidency of the bank, plus bigger things in Portland.

Vice Chairman Mrs. Alvin T. Hart—of the charming aristocracy of Kentucky; a lady of both poise and force who took over her husband's business and now heads the American Cereosetting company.

Vice Chairman J. Henry Roraback of Connecticut—president of seven New England utility companies, director of four Hartford insurance companies, besides a bank, a railroad and a couple of Mr. and Mrs. N. Beisel and babies spent Sunday in Los Angeles with friends.

Fred Ayas and A. B. Hendrickson rode a motorcycle race to San Juan Capistrano yesterday, the former winning in one hour, 27 minutes. Hendrickson's time was one hour and 28 minutes.

The streets swarmed this morning with children of all ages and sizes and the book stores were crowded all morning, for the public schools reopened this morning after a long vacation session. There are 41 teachers employed by the board of education this year.

NEW YORK.—Maiden Lane jewelers are authority for the statement that this is the greatest season for big hatpins in the history of the trade. Hatpins large enough to hold powder puffs, mirrors, trinkets and small change are being shown by the manufacturing jewelers.

One Man's Opinion

EDITOR'S NOTE:—This is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Alarmists Conjure Up Scares of War

ALARMISTS take a ghoulish delight in conjuring up the horrible possibilities of war. Impending disaster broods over the nations. Clouds of wrath are swelling to disruption. Catastrophic yawns for holocausts of victims.

The ways of men are set to overwhelming destruction. The blackness of darkness blots out the future.

Such are the craven fears of faithless men. They prate the threadbare statement that history repeats itself. They say that world conditions are identical to what they were prior to the World War.

EVEN A LITTLE study of the facts will show that 1935 is markedly different from 1914. History can repeat itself only when the controlling factors and circumstances are repeated. Like causes produce like results, but unlike causes must necessarily produce different results.

In 1914 Europe was divided into two gigantic hostile groups, which had long been fomenting the lust for war. The Triple Entente and the Triple Alliance faced each other on a dozen fronts. No such combinations of powers exists today.

Mutual hatreds and frictions there are aplenty today, but when everybody is mad at everybody else there is little chance of dangerous coalitions. There may be much growling and considerable smoke but few casualties.

Lemon Juice

Howdy, folks! Joe Bungstarter says he had a most successful summer. He never once sat down on a blackberry pie at a picnic.

Flies really don't get all the fresh air they should during the summer season. Most of them, at Balboa Beach, spend so much of their time indoors.

MUD HOLLOW NEWS

Hank McSilo, champion hog caller of this district, will enter Castoria college next week. Hank is considered a sure-fire bet to become football cheer leader.

A government report declares that the average girl who leaves home is 18. No statistics are available, but just offhand we would say that the average girl who stays home is 90.

DUMBELL NOTE

Ivory Ida, the dumbest girl in Orange, thinks "Sex U" is a famous college.

Come to think of it, it is an injustice to accuse women of being back-seat drivers. Why, they drive from the library chair, the porch swing and from almost every other kind of a seat that there is!

NOW YOU TELL ONE

"I don't care whether we win a single game this season," said the famous coach. "After all, football is just a game."

Teacher: What is a bill collector? Little Homer: A man who must be told my father is not at home.

TODAY'S DEFINITION

Dangerous Women: The one driving the car just ahead of you.

"Wanta buy an engagement ring?" "Whassa matter, your girl throw you down?" "Naw, we got married."

YE DIARY

Earlie up, waked by Babie Juice talking to herself in her little white cot, and so take the little jackanapes up, dress her, and put on her rubber boots, of which she do be vastly proud, and we to starting the tyre in the fire-place, hauling in brave logs of wood from the shed, and Babie Juice do be a great help, she carrying in the splinters. And so to breakfast.

Remarkable Remarks

Today we have the dismal spectacle of a spineless congress completely dominated by a fumbling, thwarted, inconsistent and grandiose executive.—George H. Bender, prominent Ohio republican.

America's day of pulling chestnuts out of the fire for other nations is over.—Senator K. D. McKellar, Tennessee.

Italy . . . thinks she has perfected a tremendous life-destroying machine. She wants to prove its efficacy and we are to be the guinea pig.—Tecla Hawariath, Ethiopian minister to Paris.

Someone may think that I, as an old soldier, believe that "march" talk is all glory, flags, and bugles. Like hell! I say that literally. All I can think of is blood and guts, rotting, stinking bodies—mud. —Representative Maury Maverick, Texas.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

Fire prevention week is scheduled to begin Oct. 6. What to do with our best friend when he becomes our worst enemy, is the subject for consideration and investigation. The subjugation work may be left to Fire Chief John Luxembourger, but it's our business to see that he does not have any work to do. If we can prevent fire we'll have more water for oranges and walnuts, and was going to say milk, but I'm afraid of W. D. Ranney and the other dairymen.

Over a hillbilly radio the announcer tells his audience that a stray possum has just entered the studio. But this is Leray Quick's possum trying to get at, audition. The animal, an ungrateful creature, left Quick's headquarters after the owner has rescued it from starvation and fed it with an ever dropper ever since it was a little possum. Last seen was hitchhikin' toward Los Angeles. Yep, that's Quick's possum.

The locale for that comic opera, "The Chocolate Soldier," must have been obtained in Ethiopia. The latest performance has a more serious aspect. Hope my friend Duffy does not enlist. Who would feed us if Duffy left? And that's just another reason why I am in favor of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Hold up at Sixth and Main. John Galanis says: Halt! And then he tells me that a block north of Fifth and Main is Sixth and Main, and doesn't anything ever happen there? Is that an inquiry or is there a green-eyed individual in that neighborhood? Now let's see. What can be said about Sixth and Main except that it is a busy, representative section, with Manager Diehl of the Santa Ana Building and Loan on one corner, Clyde Horton on another, Frank Koss to the northwest, John Galanis completing the foursome. Oh, yes, saw Bill Haddon and Dick Garstang and "Blondie" Meister and Leonard Baker—and the blonde. Now, John, what else?

One active merchant and another by proxy make casual visit to bank. Clerk inquires if they want their balance. The proxy client replies that he doesn't care for the bad news. That the information he already has is to the effect that the balance tips to the wrong side. There are occasions when no such information is the cause of financial indignation.

The Bank of America Business Review reports that Pacific Coast business will receive around $307,000,000 from 1935 tourists. This being a twenty-eight per cent increase over 1934, and when I went down to see Charley Dadds to get my share, he said the season wasn't over, and would I wait. I'll have to.

For the last fifty years the complaints which have come to me about delinquencies in newspaper carrier service on the various papers with which I have had an affiliation, have been almost entirely of similar character. The subscriber hesitates to complain because he does not want to hurt the carrier boy. And that's the best way in the world to hurt the boy, because neglect and inattention cannot be corrected unless the circulation department has information that the service is not satisfactory. If an employee, whether a carrier, or in any other capacity, is negligent, he will never make a successful business man. You are ruining his chances if you contribute to this carelessness.

Looking at the Louis-Baer fight from the Elsinor standpoint, the nudist colony got the worst of it. And do you suppose that Benito has had the news?

Most of the fellows I encountered yesterday were either collecting or paying prize-fight wagers. Some of them were a trifle hazy with whom they placed bets, and uncertain as to amount, so in order to not overlook anyone they put out "fishers." A few, whose names were no better than the fellow making the collections, paid up. It's a great way of getting money if the other fellow stands for it.

Correction! I'm in bad again. Earl Moran and "Omarr" (not the tent maker) Haley drift in to "lick the editor," and Ray Felton runs out on me. Even the office boy resorted. So can I take it? Haley says three references made in this column to his street address were correct, with three exceptions. It wasn't a blonde he was talking to—it was a brunette. That I did not see him in the first place, and in the last place he wasn't where I said he was in the first place. And what do you first place. Haley agreed with every accusation Haley made, and when he backed out the front door left an ugly threat that he was back on the job again, and it would be agreeable to him if I sent my check for telephone service through the mail.
